

Cameroon Cost Optical Cable Multimode

AI Overview

OM3 multimode fiber optic cables in Cameroon typically cost between $3.55 and $4.50 per foot, depending on specifications and supplier. Price Overview OM3 multimode fiber cables are designed for high-performance applications such as 10G Ethernet, data centers, and LAN/WAN networks. In Cameroon, riser-rated OM3 cables are priced around $3.55 to $3.77 per foot, while pre-terminated or specialized versions may cost slightly more depending on length and construction. For example, a 50-meter (164 ft) LC-LC OM3 patch cable suitable for 10Gb Ethernet connections is available locally and aligns with these price ranges. Local Suppliers Glotelho Cameroon offers OM3 multimode fiber cables with 6 strands, available for online purchase. Desertcart Cameroon lists 50-meter OM3 LC-LC fiber patch cables for high-density installations, suitable for SAN cabinets and data centers. Prices may vary based on fiber count, jacket type (LSZH, plenum, or riser), and whether the cable is armored or pre-terminated. Factors Affecting Cost Cable Type: OM3 is mid-range in performance; OM1 is cheaper, OM4 is more expensive. Length: Longer cables increase total cost; bulk purchases may reduce per-foot price. Construction: LSZH jackets, armored cables, and pre-terminated assemblies increase cost. Supplier and Import Fees: Local availability and import duties can affect final pricing. Practical Considerations OM3 cables support 10Gb Ethernet up to 300 meters at 850 nm, making them suitable for most enterprise and data center applications. For short runs, OM3 is often sufficient, avoiding the higher cost of OM4 cables. Ensure the cable meets local fire safety standards (LSZH or plenum-rated) for indoor installations. In summary, when budgeting for OM3 multimode fiber optic cables in Cameroon, expect $3.55-$4.50 per foot, with variations based on length, construction, and supplier. Local suppliers like Glotelho and Desertcart provide accessible options for both small and large-scale installations.
