

Price of Armored Optical Cable for Communication

AI Overview

Armored optical cables typically range from $1 to $5 per meter, depending on fiber type, core count, and armoring. Price Overview The cost of armored fiber optic cables varies based on several factors:

- Fiber Type: Singlemode (OS1/OS2) cables are generally more expensive than multimode (OM1-OM4) due to higher transmission distance and lower attenuation.
- Core Count: Cables with more cores (e.g., 24-core vs 4-core) cost more because of the additional fibers and complexity.
- Armoring Type: Steel tape armored (STA) cables are more robust and slightly more expensive than aluminum interlocking armored cables, which offer flexibility.
- Cable Length: Prices are often quoted per meter, with bulk orders sometimes reducing the per-meter cost.
- Jacket Material: LSZH (Low Smoke Zero Halogen) jackets or plenum-rated jackets can increase cost due to safety and fire-resistance standards.

Typical Price Ranges

- 4-12 core multimode armored cables: Approximately $1-$2 per meter.
- 12-24 core singlemode armored cables: Approximately $2-$5 per meter.
- Specialty armored cables (e.g., plenum-rated, direct burial, or high-flexibility aluminum armor): Can exceed $5 per meter depending on specifications.

Additional Considerations

- Delivery and Custom Lengths: Many suppliers offer cut-to-length cables with next-day delivery, which may slightly increase the total cost.
- Installation Environment: Outdoor, direct burial, or rodent-protected installations may require more robust armoring, affecting price.
- Brand and Quality: Premium brands like Corning or Brand-Rex may charge higher prices due to reliability and warranty coverage.

In summary, while basic armored fiber optic cables start around $1 per meter, the final price depends on fiber type, core count, armoring, and installation requirements. For precise pricing, contacting suppliers with your specific cable specifications is recom...
