

Specifications of Rwandan Fiberglass Cable Trays and Supports

AI Overview

Fiberglass cable trays in Rwanda are corrosion-resistant, non-conductive, and lightweight systems available in various sizes and resin types, designed for industrial, commercial, and offshore applications. Material and Construction Fiberglass cable trays, also known as FRP (Fiber Reinforced Plastic) or GRP (Glass Reinforced Plastic) trays, are manufactured using pultrusion technology, which ensures a high strength-to-weight ratio. They are non-conductive, non-magnetic, and corrosion-resistant, making them suitable for harsh environments such as chemical plants, refineries, and offshore installations. The trays are typically made from polyester or vinylester resin systems, with a surface veil applied to enhance corrosion resistance and provide UV protection. Load Capacity and Strength Despite being lightweight—approximately one-third the weight of steel trays—fiberglass trays offer comparable or superior strength to steel, allowing them to support heavy electrical cables and instrumentation without deformation. They are designed to handle both standard and heavy-duty loads, with options for ladder-style trays for larger cable bundles. Fire and Safety Ratings Fiberglass trays in Rwanda are manufactured to meet ASTM E-84 Class 1 flame rating and ASTM D-635 self-extinguishing requirements, ensuring fire safety in industrial and commercial installations. Their non-conductive nature also reduces electrical shock hazards. Sizes and Configurations These trays are available in various widths and heights, with slot patterns for easy cable positioning and attachment of cable ties, clamps, and other fixings. Accessories include brackets, fittings, and covers, allowing compact and stable installation in diverse configurations. Both ventilated and solid-bottom trays are available depending on heat dissipation and aesthetic requirements. Local Suppliers in Rwanda Several companies supply fibergl...
